9. The correspondence between the content of the course and the expectations of the academic community, professional associations and representative employers in the field:

The study of the process of europeanization should be intertwined with the conceptual frame of the European integration policies, putting forth the benefices of the process as well as its obstacles. Relatedness of data with institutional and individual perspectives from the fields of social, political, diplomatic, administrative, mediatic and educational areas is mandatory as according to the nature of the process which does not run in a hierarchical well- designed centered order.
