9. The correspondence between the content of the course and the expectations of the academic community, professional associations and representative employers in the field:

- The EU Decision-Making course is a logical complement of the European Studies disciplines taught at our Faculty. The contents are meant to detail and further the predominantly historical and juridical approach to the study conducted on the functioning of the European Union, through the introduction of the institutional element. Completing the course ensures students' openness to research, but, at the same time, it facilitates their integration into the professional environment.
